Troy Delegates Really Favor Gov. Hill's Re-election.

But They Will Not Officially Indorse Any Candidate.

Resolutions Condemning Conspiracy Laws Read to the Convention.

Thoy, Sept. 18.—The scheme of Gallahue, Caville and McGuire to get a resolution through the Labor Convention for the purpose of injuring Gov. Hul, as outlined in World this morning and extensively read here to-day, caused a sensation in the convention and brought out much severe condemnation from the honest and fairminded delegates.

This political move, which so apparently came from the Republican party managers and was really in the interest of Warner Mil ler, was the subject of debate on the opening of the convention this morning.

In order to cut off any attempt to even per mit a resolution to be read it was moved by Walter N. Thayer, of the Troy 1 rinters' Union, that all resolutions be referred to the Committee on Resolutions without being read before the convention.

Archibald, Thayer, Carson and Kelly condemned in strong terms the attempt to foist upon the convention a scheme to commit it against any candidate or to use the conven tion for an outside political purpose. This action cut out the scheme so suddenly sprung late last night. Delegate O'Dea, of Cohoes, was the only delegate who opposed the resolution to down any attempt to sprang a move to injure any any attempt to spring a move to injure any candidate or party, but his argument was too weak to prove of avail, and the motion to send all resolutions to the committee without read mg was carried almost unanimously.

Thus it will be seen that, although fair and square men are in favor of Gov. Hill, they were so honest that they wouldn't even attempt to influence their constituents by taking any action in his lavor or permitting any one to injure him or land any candidate to the detriment of others. This settled the sehemers.

Gallahue is still about, but is not in Harmony Hall this forenoon.

Caville is not visible.

McGuire is from Verplancks, and is a delegate from the brickmakers at that place. He is at the Convention to day.

All the delegates were in their seats at the resumption of the Convention this morning at 9.30 c'clock when Chairman Finkelstone called for order.

resumption of the Convention this morning at 9.20 o'clock when Chairman Finkelstone called for order.

The Committee on Resolutions returned and its Chairman, John Morrisor, presented them and they were read by Secretary Steele.

Delegate Hicks moved their adoption.

The resolutions are very lengthy and are mainly in condemnation of the Conspiracy laws. All trades and labor organizations are called upon to take such action against the objectionable laws as is best suited to their respective localities.

The committee recommends that a committee of one from each district be appointed from among the delegates in the convention for the purpose of devising a plan whereby the object of the convention may be attained. According to the instructions of the committee the resolutions were not given to the reporters and will not be until they are adopted by the Convention, the presumption being that they would be amended after debate when the full text will be furnished. Delegate Lennon, of the New York Tailors' Union, wanted England's name stricken from the resolutions, and Delegates Rosenkranz, Shakespeare, Jablinowsky and So heran, a of New York, opposed any change in the text of the resolutions.

Sotheran made a forcible and passionate appeal saving that he is an American discussion.

Sotheran made a forcible and passionate appeal, saying that he is an American citizen of English birth and he knew the effect of the obnoxious laws, and Finkelstone, who left the chair to take the floor, said that such a course would amount to nothing.

General discussion on the course to be adopted to accomplish the repeal of the conspiracy laws ensued. Some recommended that candidates for the Legislature be looked after closely and supported or opposed by organized effort according to their attitude on the cuestion on the question. Sotheran inveighed rgainst any compro-sise with candidates of the old political parties.

Shakespeare said it was useless to croak
Shakespeare said it was useless to croak about electing independent labor candidates. He favored the pledging of legislative candidates in support of the repeal of the objectionable laws, no matter of what political complexion. He declared that that was the complexion. He declared that that was the only practicable way to accomplish anything.

Finkelstone moved an amendment to the report of the committee. He wanted a plan formulated on the spot by the committee without waiting for the future action of any committee such as that proposed.

Bernard Campbell, of the Housesmiths' Union of New York, argued in favor of the report of the committee as it stood.

Bernard Campbell, of the Housesmiths' Union of New York. argued in favor of the report of the committee as it stood.

Archibald said he had not heard a single line of anything practicable from any of the speakers except from Finkelstone. He descended that the convention was absolutely powerless to accomplish anything except by pledzing the candidates for the Legislature. He said that if he satunic majesty was a candidate and pledged himself to support the repeal demanded he would support he.

McPherson, of the United Order of Carpenters, of New York, thought a demand should first be made on the Legislature for the repeal of the conspiracy laws, and if it were not acceded to some action could be taken next year to enforce it at the polls.

Finkelstone arose to a personal explanation, saying that it had been charged by a delegate, Delabar, of the Bakers, that he was attempting to sidetrack the labor movement. He countercharged that the delegate was already committed to a political party, evidently meaning his connection with the Socialistic party.

Doody referred to the election of Assembly man Graham, of the Brocklyn streetear men, through the indorsement of one of the old parties, and Finkelstone raised a point of order that he was not speaking to the motion before the house.

Morrison offered a substitute for the whole that the workingmen of the State refuse to vote for any candidate for the Legislature unless he irrevocably pledge himself to vote for the repeal of the conspiracy laws.

The original report of the committee was manimously adopted after all the amendments were voted down.

Jabilnowski moved that the Committee on Resolutions bring in a plan of action at 1 o'clock.

Delegate Hotchkiss moved that the demands for the repeal of the conspiracy laws

The convention adjourned until 1 o'clock.

PETTIFER WILL TALK PROTECTION. Republicans Import an Englishman to Dis-

BOSTON, Sept. 18.—Mr. H. J. Pettifer, of London, Eugland, electro-plate worker and Secretary of the Workman's Association for the Defense of British Industry, was a passenger on the steamship Catalonia, which arrived yesterday. His name has become familiar by his letter on "How Free Trade Works," reprints of which have been circulated so widely in the interest of the proteclated so widely in the interest of the protection campaign.

His present visit to America is made at the request of the Home Market Club, under whose auspices he will address several public meetings. His first appearance on the American platform will be made at Tremont Temple Wednesday evening, at a meeting at which Mr. Nathannel McKav, of New York, will also speak, and at which Prof. Mohr, the caricaturist, and the Home Market Drum Corps will be present. He will speak in Newark Saturday.

His last speech in New York State this month will be Sept. 25, and Sept. 26, 27 and 25 he will speak in New Jersey. From six to nime days will be devoted to Connecticut, Rhode Island and New Hampshire, and, after the New England trip, possibly two or three more to New York.

BROKER BENNETT WILL RECOVER. The Mysterious Assault Likely Always to

tion that Dr. Wilkinson did not hesitate to state that his speedy and en ire recovery from the effects of his injury was certain.

This change in the old gentleman's condition will probably end for a time at least, the great "Bennet mystery."

The name of the broker's assailant, his motive and his whereabouts are likely to remain in obscurity, for if it was an outsider who was guilty the police have not the slightest means of tracing him, and if a member of the family, the aged father will never make a complaint.

Nevertheless, Chief Murphy said this morning that the investigation would still pro-

ing that the investigation would still pro

The Chief showed to THE EVENING WORLD reporter photographed exterior and interior views of the back parlor window which was found open. It is plain to be seen that no man could have entered the house that way.

AFTER AN ALL-NIGHT ROW.

John Gurrney Found with a Fractured Skull in a Munroe Street Den.

There was a fight at 9 Monroe street which began at midnight and lasted until about 3 o'clock this merning. The immates of the place made a great noise, and when Officer Dowrian entered he discovered that a man named John Gurvney was suffering from a fractured skull.

The man was removed to the Gouverneur Hospital, and his assai'ant, whom he recognized as Charles Dowling, was arrested and locked up in the Madison street station. The officer found a bloody club and a heavy case-knife with a blade cleven inches long on the premises.

Later on Mary Barrett, a woman of twenty-five years, went to the hospital with a kuife wound in the torehead, which she said English had given her.
At the Essex Market Court Judge Duffy held English without bail to await the result of the injuries. Gourvney is believed to be

He made a forcible speech and was freely applanded for the anti-British sentiments he expressed.

Finkelstone, Morrison, Ewerich, Archibald, Doody and others spoke, mainly in favor of the report of the committee.

Delegate Rosenkranz declared emphatically that the working people should demand the repeal of the conspiracy laws and send 25,000 men to Albany for the purpose.

Delegate Lennon withdrew his motion to strike out England's name from the resolutions.

Emerich wanted a committee sent to the next Legislature and demand the repeal of the obnoxious laws, and Finkelstone, who

A DOG SAID TO BE MAD.

He Bit Two Men in First Avenue Early This Morning.

At 7.30 o'clock this morning people in the neighborhood of First avenue and Fiftyninth street scattered before the terrorinspiring cry of "mad dog."

Two men, Patrick Houlihan and Thomas O'Reilly, were a little too slow among the scatterers, and suffered from the teeth of the dog supposed to be mad. They were only slightly bitten. The dog was shot.

Houlihan is thirty-eight years old and O'Reilly is thirty. Both men live at 1075 First archue.

The United Labor Inspectors.

The Corporation Counsel has not sent up his opinion on the legal status of the United Labor inspectors, who claim to hold over under the terms of their certificates of appointment issued last year by John J. O'Brien. The Commissioners agree unanimously that they have no power to fill vacancies in case of death or removal, and a legal opinion is waited for on this onestion.

HE LETS SOME LARGE-SIZED CATS OUT OF THE BAG.

He Told an Intimate Friend that New York and Indiana Were Extremely Doubtful, but Nevertheless He Will Deny that He Said Anything of the Kind-Gov. Hill Is Well Supported.

IRPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD. Pirrissuan, Sept. 18 .- Chairman Quay, of the Republican National Committee, arrived at his home in Beaver last night. Leader to-day secured an interview with him through the medium of a friend, to whom Quay talked, evidently not knowing it was for publication. During the conversation he let several large-sized cats out of the bag, and put himself on record in a startling manner for one whose advice to others has always been Don't talk." Among other things Quay said that while he had great hopes of carrying New York and Indiana for Harrison, that both States are extremely doubtful. Gov. Hill, although secretly disliked by the party leaders of the Empire State, will, nevertheless, have their support. He will also be backed by the liquor interest of the State, and, Chairman Quay says, no amount of money will be spared to insure his election.

The Republican leader made other state. ments on the same line, all of which go to show that he is not so dead certain of Cleveland's defeat.

That Chairman Quay will deny the above is quite likely, but it is true, nevertheless, and comes from a resident of Beaver and an intimate friend of the Beaver statesman. And all this in the face of the fact that only last night Quay told a number of correspondents that they could put down as "Lies" any interviews of a political nature which might be published as purporting to come from him.

FRED MAY'S BAIL FORFEITED.

He Falls to Appear in General Sessions and It Costs His Bondsman $1,000.

"Frederick May to the bar," called out Clerk Hall in Recorder Smyth's court-room in General Sessions this morning.

There was no answer to the call, which was repeated, and then the $1,000 bail, under which May was released last June, was de-clared forfeited. It is bondsman is Lewis Howard Livingston, of 5 East Seventeenth street. He was not prosent in court, but will be responsible for the payment of the amount of the bond.

The offense for which May was indicted was a felonious assault committed upon Policeman Paniel McGowan, of the Elizabeth street station, on June 18.

McGowan, who found May in a state of semi-inebriation near Chambers street annoying some ladies, told him to move on. This May refused to do, and when the officer tried to enforce his order May drew a revolver and tried to shoot him. He would probably have succeeded at such short range had not his weapon missed fire.

tically unanimous in favor of him leading the ticket in a three-cornered fight. They look upon him as the strongest candidate they could name.

Several of the leaders have already approached him and begged him to accept the nomination if it should be tendered him, but he has turned a deaf ear to their appeals.

He is sincere and frank in his declaration that he prefers to remain on the Bench, and it is doubtful if he could be prevailed upon to bow to the unanimous wish of Tammany Hall, the anti-Hewitt people and the organizations that supported him for Judge.

There is no doubt that the County Democracy leaders are thinking of Gen. John Newton as a candidate for Mayor, and think that Tammany Hall could afford to unite upon him. Said Richard A. Cunningham to-day:

"Gen. Newton would make a splendid Mayor. He is not identified with either faction as a partisan. He has appointed a number of Tammany Hall men to office. The Wigwam cannot say that the Department of Public Works under his administration has been used as a County Democracy machine. I don't see why we cannot unite on Gen. Newton and prevent a fight in this city."

DEATH OF COL. WELLINGTON.

Paralysis Had Prevented Him from Receiving the Brooklyn Regiment. [SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD,]

BOSTON, Sept. 18. - Col. Austin C. Wellington, of the crack First Regiment, died this morning. He was one of the largest coal morning. He was one of the largest coal dealers in Boston, and one of the most popular military men in the State.

Col. Wellington was taken sick the day Col. Gaylor, of the Brooklyn Forty-seventh, come to arrange a reception to his regiment in this city. Had it not been for a sudden stroke of paralysis Col. Wellington would have received the Brooklyn boys right goally. royally.

Col. Gaylor called on the Boston Colonel

Col. Gaylor called on the Boston Colonel at noon, and talked over the proposed trip. At 3 o'clock Col. Wellington was stricken in his office and never rallied, consequently his plans for the reception of the Forty-seventh were nover communicated to any one.

Col. E. F. Gaylor, of the Forty-seventh Regiment, Brooklyn's pet military organization, was surprised and full of regret at hearing from an Evenine World man this morning that Col. Wellington was dead.

"That is the first I heard of it," he said, "I had made up my mind to say nothing about this little affair between my regiment and the First. I wanted to take my men to Boston for their interests, and spoke to Col. Wellington about it. He said he didn't go in very much for that sort of thing, but would Wellington about it. He said he didn't go in very much for that sort of thing, but would furnish us an escort and do what was right, 'Lieut.-Col. T. R. "State Adjt.-Gen. Dalton, who was committed to some sort of courtesy in our regard, excused himself on the ground of gout and went fishing up in Maine the next day. Everything else was all right, but there was a feeling that the First did not fill the bill."

Lieut. Warren E. Smith also 'earned of Col. Wellington's death with some surprise.

"If he was too sick to do anything when we came Lieut.-Col. T. R. Matthews was the one on whom the task devolved. He came alone, with a lieutenant. No excuses were made. It was a decided breach of military ctiquette, and they did not do the right thing by us. Everybody else was as fine as posby us. Everybody else was as fine as pos-
